"Let the little children come to Me, and don't stop them, because the kingdom of God belongs to such as these," Luke 18:16b

The faith of a child

A 4-year-old Chinese boy in Canada was punished by his parents. He was really upset and wanted to talk to his Sunday School teacher. Miss E is his teacher, so the parents called her on the phone. She talked with the little boy and let him tell his side of the story. Then she asked, "Would you like to pray?" He said, "Yes." Miss E waited for the little boy to start praying but she didn't hear anything. Maybe he wanted her to pray.

After a little while, the boy's daddy picked up the phone. He told Miss E that the 4-year-old was doing just what she suggested. He had put down the phone to kneel and fold his hands. He was praying!

This 4-year-old was upset with his parents, but he knew what to do. He talked to someone he trusted, his teacher. His teacher helped calm him down then asked him to talk to God.

This little boy learned a lot that day, but he also showed his mommy and daddy how much he loves and trusts Jesus.
