

May 29, 2009

"Let the little children come to Me, and don't stop them, because the kingdom of God belongs to such as these," Luke 18:16b

Eraser of sin

One day, a man called Mr. B got very sick. He is one of the Moko* (MOH-koh) people of the Pacific Rim. When a Christian worker learned that Mr. B was sick, he went to visit him. The family was friendly and invited the worker into their home, but they were not very interested in hearing about Jesus.

The worker shared stories from the Bible when Jesus healed the sick. Then he encouraged Mr. B to "Call out to Jesus for healing." Mr. B continued to resist, but he didn't get better either. Finally one night, Mr. B asked God to help him in Jesus' name. The next day, Mr. B was sitting up, eating, and feeling a lot better. Mr. B told the worker, "A doctor visited me last night—it was Jesus."

Mr. B is now reading the Gospels (Matthew, Mark, Luke and John) and telling his friends and family the stories. Mr. B calls Jesus the "eraser of sin."

It isn't acceptable to be a Christian on Moko Island, and there are no known Moko believers. Mr. B and his family are learning a lot about Jesus but haven't decided to accept Him as Savior—YET! Please pray for them to let Jesus be their healer, eraser of sin, and Savior. Pray that they will be some of the very first Moko believers.

*name changed

<http://kompray.imb.org>