

August 28, 2009

"Let the little children come to Me, and don't stop them, because the kingdom of God belongs to such as these," Luke 18:16b

Learning in school

My name is Sandy. I am 7 and I love to do cartwheels. This month the teachers say I have dyslexia. This is making my reading in my second language more difficult. I have to change classes and begin to learn reading in my own heart language (English). I cried when I found out I must leave my friends and go to a new class.

Please pray I will grow in my reading skills and be able to learn better in school. Pray I can enjoy school. Pray for my old friends as I say goodbye and pray for my new friends as I say hello after the summer break. Pray that I will not give up trying even when my school work gets harder.

I know God is with me in all this, even though I don't like the change, I was reminded HE loves me, and I agree with that. SANDY, age 7 (European peoples)

<http://kompray.imb.org>