

October 9, 2009

"Let the little children come to Me, and don't stop them, because the kingdom of God belongs to such as these," Luke 18:16b

Two aren't enough

Riding an hour on muddy, pothole-filled roads—that's how you get to the Maninka village in western Africa. Two families just got back after visiting family in the United States for nine months. The family members are tired, but they are VERY excited to see their Maninka friends. The villagers greet everyone enthusiastically. They are so happy that God has brought them back.

The families will travel all over the country of Guinea and visit as many Maninka villages as they can. But still, two families aren't enough. They can't reach everyone. It is important to have helpers who will go and share the love of Jesus. Please pray for volunteers from conventions and churches in the U.S. who can go and help tell the Maninka people about Jesus.

<http://kompray.imb.org>