

August 27, 2010

"Let the little children come to Me, and don't stop them, because the kingdom of God belongs to such as these," Luke 18:16b

COLLEGE DAYS

This month, lots of MKs (missionary kids) flew to the United States from the many different places they live in the world. This can be one of the most difficult times in a missionary's life—when they send their high school graduates off to college. Maybe your brother or sister just left for college, and you can understand how the families feel.

This is a time of tears and prayers, of congratulations and pride. The college students are really excited about the future but a little scared too. Moms and dads want their kids to get the best possible education, but they are sad that they won't be able to see their children very often. Remember, these parents live in a foreign country. Their college students can't go home for a weekend.

Some of the young people will live on campus, others might live with their grandparents—all will miss home. Please pray for moms and dads (and brothers and sisters) who are still on the mission field telling people about Jesus and who are missing their kids.

Pray for the MK college students—pray that they will find good and godly friends and pray that they will stay faithful to God.

<http://kompray.imb.org>